Kathryn Hahn is 'Mrs. Fletcher' in seriocomic HBO series

By Jay Bobbin

Figuratively and literally, every part Kathryn Hahn has played has led her to "Mrs. Fletcher."

The actress' experience in roles supporting or main — and comedic or dramatic — proves cumulative in the HBO series that premieres Sunday, Oct. 27. Based on the novel by Tom Perrotta ("The Leftovers"), who also wrote the debut episode, it casts "Transparent" alum Hahn in the title role of a divorced senior-center director who finds it a challenge to adjust when her only child (portrayed by Jackson White) goes off to college. The empty-nest situation takes Eve Fletcher down a surprising path of self-discovery.

"I devoured the book and the pilot script," Hahn says of "Mrs. Fletcher," which also features Casey Wilson and the late Cameron Boyce ("Descendants"). She then discussed the material with Perrotta, "and I just really loved his brain and his innate curiosity and his big sort of collaborative wonderment. I thought, 'Oh, this is going to be an interesting process.' I just knew it right off the bat."

Hahn also had an indication of that from having watched the 2006 movie version of Perrotta's "Little Children," which she deems similar to "Mrs. Fletcher" in its "lifting the veil on suburbia, and looking underneath the sprinklers at the dreams and desires and wants and longings of people you might not necessarily pay attention to. That's the kind of neighborhood I grew up in outside of Cleveland, so it felt very familiar to me."

Much of Hahn's "Mrs. Fletcher" performance is reactive to circumstances and other characters, and she feels it's "more satisfying for me, being in that stillness. When I learn the most about who I'm playing is when I'm listening, so I was really pleased by how much you get to see Eve processing things. She has such a journey of finding out who she is after this Pandora's box has been opened once Brendan (White) leaves for college."

Hahn also will work for HBO in the forthcoming adaptation of Wally Lamb's best-seller "I Know This Much is True," and she'll enter the Marvel universe in "WandaVision" for Disney+. She's proud of her range of projects, also encompassing movies from "Bad Moms" to "Private Life" — and she especially appreciates the boost from cable and streaming services to the sort of outside-the-box work she likes to do.

"Certainly, the roles are more rich and deep and complicated and varied," Hahn reasons. "I don't feel the difference between film and television at all anymore. In fact, I've been able to dig deeper in some of these series or limited series that I've been afforded to do ... and if that means there are more eyeballs on them, that's fantastic."

Kathryn Hahn stars in "Mrs. Fletcher," premiering Sunday on HBO.

HAVING A SAFE HALLOWEEN

A statewide effort is underway to make Halloween 2019 a safe one. Halloween is coming on Thursday, October 31. State and local government agencies recognize that Halloween can be a dangerous night for children walking on dark roadways across the country. They have launched the Street Smart NJ campaign to make the public aware of ways of staying safe during Halloween.

Here are some useful safety tips from Street Smart NJ:
Tips for everyone with cell phones: Remember, heads up, phones down, whether you are operating a vehicle or crossing the road.
Tips for pedestrians: Make sure that costumes don't impair your child's ability to walk or see. Safety experts warn against wearing masks that can limit visibility.
Before crossing a street, look left, right, and then left again. Use sidewalks. When there are no sidewalks, walk next to the street while facing traffic.
Be visible. Parents should add reflective tape to costumes or make sure that children carry a light or a glow stick to ensure that vehicles can see them at night. Be seen on Halloween.
Use crosswalks. Wait for the walk signal. Avoid distractions. Don't use electronic devices while crossing. Cross at corners and intersections and use marked crosswalks whenever possible. Do not cross between parked cars, because it makes it difficult for motorists to see you.

Tips for drivers: Obey the speed limit. The AAA suggests driving five miles per hour below the posted speed limit on Halloween.

Stop for pedestrians. New Jersey law requires motorists to stop for pedestrians in crosswalks. Violations of the law carry a $200 fine and two points on your license.

Don't drive distracted. Don't use electronic devices while driving. New Jersey prohibits talking and texting while driving. Fines range from $200 for first-time offenders to as much as $800 for repeat offenders.

Drive sober. On Halloween night between 2009 and 2013, 119 people were killed by drunk driving, according to the National Highway Safety Traffic Administration.

Don't turn on red without looking for pedestrians.

If everyone follows these tips, Halloween 2019 will be a safe and enjoyable time. Please be careful as you travel around our community on Halloween. I ask all trick-or-treaters and drivers to be extra-cautious. Many parents and guardians will help their children stay safe by escorting them from street to street on Halloween. We want to keep October 31 a safe and happy date for everyone.

HOLLYWOOD

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — The CW is preparing a reboot of "Walker, Texas Ranger" with "Supernatural" star Jared Padalecki in the title role. Padalecki played Dean Forester in "Gilmore Girls" from 2000-05 and then went right into "Supernatural" as Sam Winchester for the past 15 seasons. This will be a taller, younger Cordell Walker. Jared is 37 years old and stands 6 feet, 4 inches tall, while Chuck Norris was 53 when he was Walker and stood 5 feet, 10 inches.

How did the CW get the idea for Padalecki to play Walker? Maybe it was that 2011 episode of "Supernatural," in which he played the Texas ranger. Jared also starred in "House of Wax" (2005), with CW star Chad Michael Murray and Elisha Cuthbert. Notably, the audience always applauded when the villain got Paris Hilton. Jared wed actress Genevieve Cortese (whom he met on the set of "Supernatural") in 2010, and they have two sons and a daughter. Norris, now 79, is wed to former model Gena O'Kelly, 23 years his junior. She brought two children to their union and had twins with him in 2001. Norris also has 13 grandchildren. His last film was "The Expendables 2," a virtual who's who of action stars with Sylvester Stallone, Jason Statham, Jet Li, Dolph Lundgren, Liam Hemsworth, Jean-Claude Van Damme, Bruce Willis and Arnold Schwarzenegger.

Now that Sylvester Stallone has retired Rambo (so he says), he's far from retiring. He's currently shooting the thriller "Samaritan," about a young boy searching for a superhero who vanished 20 years earlier.

Could've eaten the "Downton Abbey" film with a spoon, it was that delicious. It was like the six years of the PBS series had never ended. Producers said before its release that a sequel would depend on how moviegoers greeted it, and judging from the box office response they're now considering making a "Downton Abbey" film every year as long as fans want them.

Ana de Armas, who impressed in "Blade Runner 2049," has three films ready for release: "Wasp Network," with Penelope Cruz and Gael Garcia Bernal; the mystery thriller "Knives Out," starring Daniel Craig, Chris Evans, Michael Shannon, Jamie Lee Curtis and Christopher Plummer (due Nov. 27); and the crime drama "The Night Clerk," with Tye Sheridan, Helen Hunt and John Leguizamo. She is set to play Marilyn Monroe next. The Netflix film is simply called "Blonde," and she'll have Oscar-winner Adrien Brody, Emmy-winner Bobby Cannavale and Lily Fisher supporting her. Also in the film is Chris Lemmon, whose father, Jack Lemmon, starred with Marilyn Monroe in "Some Like It Hot." Carol Burnett returns to movies in the Netflix musical comedy "Sorta Like a Rock Star," about an abnormally optimistic teenage girl who must face a devastating loss. Does Carol pull her ear in movies? We'll find out!
