HOROSCOPES ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20 No one can ever achieve perfect balance, Aries, so don't put so much effort toward this goal. There's no need to be perfect; you're fine just the way you are.

TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21 Everyone is waiting for you to get down to business, Taurus. The time is right to get to work and make everyone proud. But don't get too far ahead of the pack.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21 You're texting, calling, and emailing people all day long. No one can claim that you aren't the center of information. But you may be spending too much time gossiping instead of working.

CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22 Agree to disagree with someone at your office. Sometimes an argument is not worth the effort, and proving a point does not lead to success. Take some time to relax on Tuesday.

LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23 Try to see the bright side of your employment situation, Leo. No job is perfect, including your own. But any job can have bright spots. Get a new perspective.

VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22 Don't criticize others, Virgo, when you're guilty of doing the same exact thing. Worry only about yourself the next few weeks. You'll be much happier that way.

LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23 The answer to a problem may seem obvious, Libra. But you may want to dig a little deeper. Chances are you are missing something if the answer is too easy.

SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22 With so many tempting options, it can be extremely hard to make a decision, Scorpio. Don't fall for just glitter and glamour, however. Look for something of substance.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 Some bit of information is escaping you, Sagittarius. Keep thinking and it will come back. Leo is a thorn in your side this week. But the problem will soon blow over.

CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 Follow the routine and stick to the basics this week, Capricorn. Now is not the time to try something new. Go with what works. Aquarius offers good advice.

AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 A great idea comes out of the blue and provides inspiration for future projects, Aquarius. Embrace it and enjoy the ride. Cancer means well but could be meddlesome.

PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20 Nothing is set in stone this week, Pisces. So try a few different scenarios and you may discover something that works for you.

LIZ SMITH

Will Lady Gaga Really Take Madonna's Crown? By Liz Smith

"CHANGE IS inevitable. Except from a vending machine," said Robert C. Gallagher. THE OTHER day we spoke of excess, in the form of the late producer and party-giver Allan Carr.

But what to make of Lady Gaga, who's today's queen of excess? The pop singer dresses like an alien and rules the charts with her techno dance tunes. New York magazine - which refers to her as "effortlessly global" - has her on its cover, and many pages inside. She's truly legit. (Once she was a schleppa, now she's Miss Mazzeppa!) She is also on the current cover of the handsome Hamptons Sheet, looking like ... I don't know what! However, one does take a second and third look. That's for sure. She is compelling.

Gaga recently put out a wild and wicked video, "Telephone" guest-starring Beyonce. The video caused a sensation - lots of people loved it, then there were the moralists who found it offensive. (The vid highlights prison escape, mass murder, references to masturbation, a strong lesbian vibe and lots of skin.) Donny Osmond himself condemned it. Gaga, I'm sure, would have preferred harsh words from Sarah Palin - so much more newsworthy!

"Telephone" is the most elaborate video in some time. It recalls the classic (and expensive) works of Michael Jackson and Madonna, the two artists who ruled the medium in the '80s and early '90s. "Telephone" made 2010 people sit up and take notice - even those who were not really into La Gaga.

BUT, can Gaga hold onto her popularity? She has a powerful voice, though it is jacked up and often distorted via the electronica so beloved today. She can dance. She has humor. The outfits, however, are a gimmick that I fear will pall quickly; she doesn't need them. They look uncomfortable and even dangerous - to herself and others. But that's just my opinion. New York magazine's Vanessa Grigoriadis insists, "That's the genius of Gaga; her willingness to be a mutant, a cartoon. ... One of her essential points is that celebrity should be the province of weirdos."

Lady Gaga is most often compared to Madonna, and cited as her inheritor to the crown as Queen of Pop. (It's certainly not going to be Britney!) Hard to judge at this point. The culture (and the music biz) has changed so much since Madonna's advent in 1983, that the landscape is almost totally unrecognizable.

Allowing for those changes, I don't "feel" Lady Gaga's impact as I did with Madonna - La Ciccone was also interesting as herself, as a celebrity, a star, an instantly iconic figure on the world landscape. Madonna presented herself as a sexual creature, open to all experience. She was no mutant! Her "re-inventions" were mostly a matter of hair color, style and a different way of dressing. She always looked like herself, even when she shaved her eyebrows to Marlene Dietrich antennae and put in a fake gold tooth. She was a new-style star who still paid homage to the great goddesses of the past.

LADY G's transformations are far more manufactured - deliberate costumes. One might say she is paying homage to the 1970s when performance art and camp sensibilities spilled out into the culture and the streets - especially in New York City. Or perhaps she's taken some bits from John Cameron Mitchell and "Hedwig and the Angry Inch," as theater writer Michael Riedel suggested? However, she inescapably channels Madonna with remarks such as "I want to liberate my fans and free them from their fears." (Hopefully, Gaga won't channel Madonna's "Sex" book.)

Of course, Madonna's music (her ballads anyway) and her early lush videos were more to my taste - as much as my taste would ever run to current pop music or MTV. Though she often lost me with her deliberate provocations.

As far as I'm concerned, the greatest thing

Madonna ever did was her Marie Antoinette turn at the MTV Music Video Awards, vamping to "Vogue." It was sexy, edgy and funny. It was 1990. New York magazine points out, "Madonna hasn't had a sense of humor about herself since the early '90s, where Gaga is all fun and play." (I thought Madonna was pretty funny on "The Marriage Ref" - maybe being back in America, and being single, is loosening her up again.)

MISS Gaga has yet to break through - in my opinion - as Madonna did, in terms of "stardom." No matter that Madonna's movie career never quite panned out, she always had that glamour vibe, albeit on the funky side. And her personal life was subject to wild speculation. She was - and remains - a gossip columnist's dream. (This columnist got to know Madonna, so there's that issue in terms of judging Lady Gaga's impact; she's not calling from Budapest with the scoop on her first pregnancy.)

Well, we'll see where Lady G. is 25 years from now. Initially, nobody thought Madonna would last more than a season.

Still, like Madonna, Gaga now finds herself the subject of major "think" pieces, such as Neil McCormick's brilliant critique of "Telephone" in the Daily Telegraph. He opines that Gaga "Might just turn out to be the ultimate video queen."

Hmmm ... although it would be absurd for Madonna, age 51, to be truly "competitive" with the much younger Gaga - in fact the two appeared in an "SNL" skit, spoofing a rivalry - maybe evaluations, such as McCormick's, will kick start La Ciccone into re-thinking what she's been doing in videos recently. She should get back to the mind-set that produced masterpieces such as "Like a Prayer" "Express Yourself," "Oh, Father," "Bad Girl," "Vogue" "Take a Bow" "I Want You" and even 2000's lovely, western-themed "Don't Tell Me."

MADONNA has her four children, her admirable charity work, her multi-mega-millions, her record-breaking tours, her gorgeous young lover, her legend and a mob scene wherever she goes. She ain't crying, and I'm not crying for her. Still, I could live forever and never again see Madonna's pelvic squat thrusts that she thinks is dancing, as in her most recent videos and concerts. We know you're fit, honey. And we know you love those techno sound effects. Enough.

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!

Mayor to Residents: Mail In Your Census Forms by April 19

April 1, 2010, was Census Day in the United States. The population numbers as of that date are supposed to be the ones used in the official population count for the 2010 Census. Census forms received in the mail must be sent back now.

Bayonne Mayor Mark A. Smith urged residents to mail back their completed census forms at once. Smith said, "I know that some residents were delaying their forms until April 1, because that date appears on the census form. There was no need to delay before April 1, and there is no excuse to delay now. It is urgent to send in the completed forms right now. If people fill out the forms and mail them back, they are sure to be counted. If people wait for a census worker to count them, there is a chance that they could be missed."

Smith continued, "For every person not counted, we will lose thousands of dollars in federal and state aid for the next ten years. For every person counted, we will gain federal and state aid dollars from programs that are based on census numbers. That is why it is vitally important for everyone to be counted now."

The Census Bureau has advised the City of Bayonne that it mailed out additional census forms the first full week of April to households that did not respond in a timely manner in March. Extra census forms are available at City Hall and at several other locations in Bayonne through April 19. After that date, census workers will go door to door to count people who did not respond by mail. Anyone who does not want to be visited by census workers should mail in the completed census form now.

The City of Bayonne is continuing to work with the Census Bureau to increase public awareness of the 2010 population count between now and April 19.

For anyone who did not receive a census form, they are available in the Office of the Mayor and at numerous other locations in Bayonne. At each of these sites, people can pick up census forms that are printed in English and other languages. Some "Be Counted" sites simply have boxes of forms. On the following list, those sites will be designated "boxes only." At other locations, Census Bureau staffers will be available for assistance with filling out the census questionnaires. On the list, those sites will be designated "staffed."

BEFORE AND AFTER IN THE SOAPS

By Toby Goldstein

ALL MY CHILDREN: When Kendall confirmed Greenlee's suspicions about her being the other driver, but swore it had been an accident, Greenlee accused Kendall of trying to kill her in order to get Ryan. Greenlee took the stand in David's defense, blaming Kendall. As the jury reached a verdict in David's case, Ryan told Greenlee he wants nothing to do with her, given the way she treated Kendall. Coming: Annie strikes back against JR.

AS THE WORLD TURNS: Seeing Rocco with a gun, and not realizing that Rocco had taken it away from a thug to protect him, Dusty threw Rocco against a wall, triggering a heart attack. Rocco apologized to Dusty and told Dusty who shot him. As Dusty tackled the gunman, Rocco couldn't be revived. Gabriel blackmailed Craig into giving him money from Parker's trust fund in return for his silence about Craig's thefts. Coming: Reid prepares to operate on Noah.

BOLD AND BEAUTIFUL: Her pregnancy confirmed, Bridget couldn't handle her guilt any longer and was ready to confess the tryst to Nick, only to be caught off-guard when he stopped her by turning the situation into romance. Owen offered to take a paternity test to rule him out as being the baby's father. With Stephen and Beth back in town and Beth's mental condition deteriorating, Eric invited them to stay with him and Donna. Coming: Stephanie puts her own spin on the accident.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES: Realizing he can't beat Stefano, EJ caved in, accepting Stefano's condition for reconciliation - that he have his grandchildren in his life. Stefano agreed not to tell Sami about EJ's role in the kidnapping, but when Sami arrived at the mansion to pick up the children, Stefano said he has something to discuss with her. Carly picked up on Chloe's discomfort over her living with her and David, and decided to move in with Adrienne. Coming: Chloe can't get past her insecurities.

GENERAL HOSPITAL: Faced with Alexis' confession that she hit Kiefer with her car, Mac arrested her but immediately let her remain free. Kiefer's father, Warren, out to make Alexis pay, demanded to know why Mac is going easy on her. When Claire offered Sonny a deal that would keep his kids out of the courtroom in return for a 10-year prison sentence, Jason intended to do the time in Sonny's place, but Claire turned him down. Coming: Dante's sleuthing unearths damaging evidence.

MELROSE PLACE: In the season finale, fired by Amanda from WPK, Ella searched for anything she could use to blackmail Amanda, leading to horrendous consequences for one of the combatants. A college reunion led Jonah to ask Riley if they could get back together. Lauren and David realized that they were meant for each other and reconciled, drawing the wrath of a jealous Morgan and possibly costing Lauren her life. Coming: A decision will be made in May regarding "Melrose Place's" renewal for another season.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE: Angry with Cole after finding him in what seemed like a compromising position with Hannah, Todd vented his rage on Marty, threatening her when she made a nasty comment about his future. As Marty was leaving the hospital, she met with foul play. A mute patient in the sanitarium, whom John suspected might hold a clue to the strange phone calls she received, approached Kelly. Coming: Things get heated between Marty, Natalie and John.

YOUNG AND RESTLESS: The investigation intensified regarding what happened to Adam. Victor warned Nick that he told the district attorney that Nick was never in the basement with Adam. Victoria and Billy collaborated to get their stories straight, as Chance ordered a forensic search of Billy's hotel room. While arguing with Neil, Malcolm claimed to have learned about Lily's cancer from Olivia, but Olivia returned to Genoa City and busted Malcolm. Coming: Victoria and Billy's secret is in danger of being exposed.

By David Burstein

In the quiet area down near Bergen Point, where the calm of the water of the Kill Van Kull separates the shores of Bayonne and Staten Island, sits an intimate little Pizzeria and Grill called TONY MAY'S. This area is well-served by this business. They've been in operation for the a little over 2½ years, and they come with a lifetime of experience in the food business, and are under the ownership and direct supervision of a rather unique individual. Dino Maggiore is his name. He has not only been in the Italian food business his entire life but he is also an inventor. Dino has been in this downtown location for eight years creating and selling a remarkable oven of his own design called Verferno. In September of 2008 Dino made a choice to open Tony May's in the demo area of this operation so the public can enjoy the extraordinary pizzas that come out of this brick oven.

There is an art in creating a delicious pizza, and Dino does not build any pizza haphazardly. You must try one slice to enjoy the way the dough is baked into a crusty, crunchy manner, and then experience the freshly made tomato sauce that covers that crust in a blanket of red. The imported plum tomatoes from Italy allow you to distinguish the difference from those that are filled with preservatives. Your favorite ingredients are then applied according to your wishes. The finished taste is titillating!

The major surprise that augments the taste you experience is the special brick oven in which the baking is done. It is called a Veroforno Oven. This oven has been developed by the owner of Tony May's, and had been sold to successful pizzerias all over this country. It has walls that are a foot thick, that protects you from the intense heat of the oven. The Veroforno oven does not release carbon monoxide into the baking chamber which keeps the food healthy, the crust simply delectable and it is completely environmentally friendly.

Tony May's Pizza & Grill is also friendly to your digestive system. You'll never get any reflux after eating a pizza here. The ingredients are made from scratch. The dough is molded just before it enters the oven, and covered in the freshest offerings. The brick-oven pizzas that come out are bristling with flavor. Taste the difference yourself by coming to Kennedy Boulevard between 3rd and Gertrude Streets. Experience some of this pizzeria's taste-bud awakenings, and see the oven that creates these pizza miracles.

Also, as the saying goes, "Behind every successful man is a woman," and at this establishment it is true for Dino's wife Virginia is the chef who cooks all the delicious entrees that come out of their kitchen. My favorite is the grilled shrimp salad. It consists of eight large shrimp, seasoned and grilled to perfection piled high over a bed of fresh lettuce, tomatoes and olives. Both Virginia and Dino would like to thank their customers for the many compliments they receive daily about their Italian specialties.

WOLFGANG PUCK'S KITCHEN

By Wolfgang Puck

A REFRESHING ITALIAN DESSERT

While it's always been available in fancy Italian restaurants, panna cotta has become more mainstream lately, appearing in all sorts of forms on dessert menus everywhere. It has even migrated to other courses. At my steakhouse Cut, which opened last year at the Beverly Wilshire Four Seasons Hotel in Beverly Hills, we even make a fresh horseradish-flavored version as a surprising base for our shrimp cocktail.

However you flavor a panna cotta, one trick to making it just right - not too firm to the point of being rubbery, not so soft that it doesn't even set properly - is to include the right proportion of gelatin to cream, generally about 1-1/2 teaspoons to 3 cups for a standard version made with cream and milk. But along with the gelatin, I like to add body to my own panna cotta using other methods as well. In my recipe here for Lemon Marmalade Panna Cotta, you'll find fresh ricotta cheese (available in well-stocked markets and Italian delis) and whipped cream along with the gelatin, resulting in an especially luscious consistency.

As easy as all panna cottas are to make, cooks in both home and professional kitchens often face one big pitfall: unmolding the dessert before serving it. I've found the perfect solution. I simply don't unmold it. Instead, I pour the mixture into beautiful martini glasses partly filled with fresh berries, then leave them to chill. The finished desserts literally sparkle. And there's room left over in the glass to add a drizzle of fresh berry sauce, chocolate shavings or sauce, or any other embellishment you might like.

The results, needless to say, will melt in your mouth!

LEMON MARMALADE PANNA COTTA WITH FRESH BERRIES AND RASPBERRY SAUCE
Makes about 3-1/2 cups, 8 servings
LEMON MARMALADE PANNA COTTA:

1 cup heavy cream
10 ounces milk

1/2 cup sugar
1 vanilla bean, split in half lengthwise, scraped
2/3 cup fresh ricotta cheese
1-1/4 teaspoons plain gelatin powder, dissolved in 3 tablespoons room-temperature tap water
2 tablespoons lemon marmalade or orange marmalade, peels finely minced
1 pound assorted fresh berries

RASPBERRY SAUCE:

2 pints fresh or frozen raspberries
1/2 cup sugar
1 to 2 tablespoons lemon juice
In a saucepan, combine half of the heavy cream with all of the milk and sugar. (Keep the remaining cream refrigerated.) With a small, sharp knife, carefully cut the vanilla bean in half; then, use the knife's tip to scrape the seeds from the vanilla bean halves into the pan, and add the scraped bean halves, too. Bring the mixture to a boil over medium high heat, stirring occasionally. Turn off the heat and, with a wire whisk, briskly whisk in the ricotta.

Place a metal mixing bowl inside a larger bowl filled with ice cubes, and rest a fine-meshed strainer above the metal bowl. Pour the hot mixture into the strainer and press it through with a rubber spatula. Add the dissolved gelatin and slowly whisk it into the cooling mixture. Leave to cool to room temperature, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, put the remaining cream in a clean mixing bowl. With a hand-held electric mixer on medium speed, whip the cream just until soft peaks form when the beaters are stopped and lifted out.

With the spatula, gently fold the whipped cream into the mixture. Finally, fold in the marmalade.

Place 8 martini glasses on a tray. Divide the mixed berries among them. Spoon the panna cotta mixture into the glasses to cover the berries, dividing it evenly and smoothing its surface. Put the tray of filled glasses in the refrigerator to chill for about 1 hour.

Meanwhile, make the raspberry puree. Combine the raspberries, sugar and 1 tablespoon of the lemon juice in a saucepan. Cook over medium heat, stirring, until the berries release their liquid, the sugar dissolves and the mixture comes to a boil. Reduce the heat and simmer until the berries have formed a thick puree, 7 to 10 minutes. Pour through a fine-meshed strainer into a heatproof bowl, pressing it through with a rubber spatula and discarding the seeds from the strainer. Taste and, if necessary, stir in some more lemon juice. Cover and refrigerate.

When the panna cottas have chilled for 1 hour, spoon the raspberry puree evenly over their surfaces. Return to the refrigerator and chill until completely set, at least 1 hour more. Serve chilled.
