Kiefer Sutherland's 'Designated Survivor' is designated to resume on Netflix

By Jay Bobbin

When ABC canceled it, Kiefer Sutherland suspected "Designated Survivor" would survive.

Netflix already had the rights outside North America to the drama about a suddenly appointed U.S. president, so Sutherland — an executive producer of the series as well as its star — deemed the streaming service a logical home for a new Season 3. Indeed, 10 fresh episodes premiere there Friday, June 7, as Sutherland's Tom Kirkman campaigns for a full term in the job he was thrust into after a terrorist attack killed the sitting chief executive and just about every Cabinet member.

Kiefer Sutherland stars in the new Season 3 of "Designated Survivor," which begins streaming Friday on Netflix.

"It's the nature of how things go," Sutherland reflects of "Designated Survivor's" journey. "When something is working, you take that for that ... but when a network goes through leadership transitions, literally in this case (at ABC), you just accept that for what it is and get used to it.

"Having said that, I was aware Netflix had the show globally, and they were incredibly excited about the success of the show in that capacity. I think within two days of hearing about ABC's decision, I heard from The Mark Gordon Company (a major production entity behind the show) that they were already in discussions with Netflix to have a Season 3, so it was pretty quick."

That enabled "Designated Survivor" to retain much of its cast, also including Italia Ricci, Kal Penn, Adan Canto and Maggie Q. The third season adds Anthony Edwards, who previously worked with new showrunner Neal Baer on "ER," and Tony Award winner Julie White.

Sutherland likes the Netflix formula that drops all of a show's season at once: "My only previous experience with that was with people who would not watch '24' until they got the DVD sets, and they ended up loving the show more than anybody because they watched it without commercials. And they watched it at their own pace, so when they wanted another episode, they got to have it."

There's also a creative appeal to having "Designated Survivor" on Netflix, since Sutherland explains that "various networks will not let you use China or Russia. They'll have you make up a country for you to have your conflict with. Netflix is not that, so we get to dive into some of these situations in a much more realistic way."

Also with a country-music career going strong with the recent release of his second album, "Reckless & Me," Sutherland is finding it "tiring" but gratifying to balance that and acting. "In the end, you make room for the things you love to do," he reasons. "Acting is the love of my life, but music is now, too. And the common denominator between the two is storytelling."

Son of Famed Navy Diver Carl Brashear to Speak at Bayonne Library on June 4; Father's Life Inspired Men of Honor Film

Mayor Jimmy Davis announced that DaWayne Brashear, son of famed Navy Master Diver/Master Chief Boatswain's Mate Carl Brashear, will speak at the Bayonne Public Library's second floor gallery on Tuesday, June 4, at 6:30 p.m. Carl Brashear graduated from the U.S. Navy's Diving and Salvage School in Bayonne in 1954, becoming the first African-American to do so. He was also the first black diver in the U.S. Navy. The diving school was located at Bayonne's Naval Supply Depot, which was later called the Military Ocean Terminal. A new street at the former base will be named after Carl Brashear.

DaWayne Brashear's presentation will be one in a series of special events taking place in 2019 to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the City of Bayonne. Mayor Davis said, "We would like to thank DaWayne Brashear for coming to Bayonne to make this presentation about the life of his father. We are honored that our former Navy base played such a pivotal role in the life of Carl Brashear."

Master Chief Boatswain's Mate Brashear served the Navy in the United States, Guam, and Europe. While taking part in a highly classified recovery mission off the coast of Spain in 1966, Brashear had an accident that eventually caused the amputation of his left leg below the knee. He was recertified as a Navy diver, and continued his service to our country. He retired from the Navy in 1979, and then worked as a civilian federal government employee until 1993. Carl Brashear's life was the subject of the film Men of Honor (2000), which starred Cuba Gooding, Jr. and Robert DeNiro.

After Carl Brashear's passing in 2006, the Carl Brashear Foundation was established to inspire, uplift, and empower all for generations to come.

DaWayne Brashear has spoken at numerous events across the country, telling inspirational stories that provide a behind-the-scenes look into the life of his father, an extraordinary American hero. DaWayne provided a recorded oral history of his father to the Smithsonian's National African American Museum of History and Culture. The Brashear family also provided several Carl Brashear artifacts for permanent display at the museum.

The Brashear presentation at the Bayonne library on June 4 is free and open to the public.

HOROSCOPES ARIES - Mar 21/Apr 20 Aries, expect others to pay attention to what you have to say this week. It may seem like no one is giving your thoughts much mind, but they're not falling on deaf ears.
TAURUS - Apr 21/May 21 Taurus, this week starts off with a lot of excitement, and that energy continues throughout the ensuing days. You may need to catch your breath at some point.
GEMINI - May 22/June 21 Concentrating on work seems quite challenging this week, Gemini. Many interesting diversions are calling out to you. Ask a friend to help you focus.
CANCER - Jun 22/Jul 22 It can be burdensome to have so many people relying on you in any given week, Cancer. But keep your head up because that trust shows their faith in you.
LEO - Jul 23/Aug 23 Leo, even though you continue to adapt to every change thrown your way, always thinking on your feet can be taxing. It's time to take a well-deserved break. Start planning.
VIRGO - Aug 24/Sept 22 Virgo, instead of thinking everything through to the most minute of details, take a much simpler approach. You'll rest easier knowing you cut out most of the drama from your days.
LIBRA - Sept 23/Oct 23 Libra, some intense social interactions may have tapped into your reserved energy. If you're feeling tired and out of sorts, laughter and good friends can help.
SCORPIO - Oct 24/Nov 22 Scorpio, you always have a few tricks up your sleeve and this week is no different. Reserve your secret weapon for when you need it most. Enjoy the good times ahead.

SAGITTARIUS - Nov 23/Dec 21 Sagittarius, devoting your energy to pleasurable things instead of work has found you falling behind on some important things. It's time to finally buckle down.
CAPRICORN - Dec 22/Jan 20 Don't let a few bumps along the way completely derail your plans, Capricorn. You may feel discouraged, but this is only a small hill to overcome. Next week looks promising.
AQUARIUS - Jan 21/Feb 18 Aquarius, stop midweek and assess just how much you have accomplished already. You will be amazed at just how much you can do in a short amount of time.
PISCES - Feb 19/Mar 20 You are quick at the start, Pisces. But unless you pace yourself, you are going to fizzle out before the end of this week. Try to be more steady.

tastytv by George Dickie
'Man Fire Food' host Mooking has a burning passion for barbecue

Ask Roger Mooking of "Man Fire Food" what initially inspired his love of barbecue and he will give a surprisingly candid answer.

"I used to love fire and playing with fire and luckily I had no major accidents with fire," he says with a laugh. "... You know, I think that's just a primal human instinct to be enamored with the fire and being around it. ... I just had this affinity with it growing up and when I started to cook and kind of went through regular traditional restaurants and kitchens and catering companies and hotels, you're kind of like yearning to see like what else can we do with cooking and then the live fire thing, I kind of reached back to my history of just loving fire and started diving into that. And next thing you know, I'm traveling around eating all this fire-cooked food."

Now in its eighth season Wednesdays on Cooking Channel, the series finds Mooking, an accomplished chef, restaurateur, musician and cookbook author, traveling the country searching for more people who cook with fire, the contraptions they use and the dishes they create with them. is season's episodes focus more on global cuisines and take Mooking to such locales as New Orleans, Bakersfield, Calif., and stops throughout Texas to see how people are putting their own spins on international foods through barbecue.

That was evident in last week's episode in Houston, where a Japanese favorite got a Texas touch.

"What we did is we smoked a brisket and we made some sushi from nigiri with smoked brisket on top of it," he explains. "It was really good. ... The rice has the kind of sweet and the tang and the soft texture and the brisket is soft and fatty and smoky and there are spices on there as well. So you get a full bang in one bite."

Houston, which has a large Vietnamese population, was also where Mooking got to try one local's interpretation of pho, a traditional soup.

"It's a smoked brisket pho," he says, "so Vietnamese soup with the noodles, the whole thing, a really delicious broth that's a recipe that he learned from his mother and he puts smoked brisket on top of it as well. So again, really simple and you'd think that somebody would have done that before because a lot of pho comes with brisket but this smoked thing just added a whole other layer to it and it was a real Texas-style brisket."

"So it was the Texas thing and the Vietnamese thing all coming together with an old family recipe and it just made sense," he continues, "And it was a beautiful thing."

TV PIPELINE

by Jay Bobbin

Q: What did Hoda Kotb do before she became a co-anchor of "Today"? — Christine Barker, Palm Coast, Fla.

A: Her first job in TV news was as an assistant for CBS News in Cairo in the mid-1980s, and then she worked as an anchor and/or reporter at stations in Illinois, Mississippi, Louisiana (New Orleans, specifically) and Florida. Kotb joined NBC News in 1998 as a national correspondent, but her image with that division largely became cemented when she joined Kathie Lee Gifford for the fourth hour of "Today" starting in 2007. With Gifford's recent exit, she's now partnered with Jenna Bush Hager for that hour — and she also continues as Savannah Guthrie's principal anchoring partner on the main two hours of "Today," a situation that happened quite suddenly in the fall of 2017 when NBC parted company with then-co-host Matt Lauer.

Q: I heard that "Lethal Weapon" has been canceled. Is that true? — Pat Donnelly, via e-mail

A: Yes. That the Fox series got a Season 3 order a year ago was last-minute luck, since there was no guarantee it would continue after the firing of star Clayne Crawford — but a deal was made for Seann William Scott to board the show as a new character to partner with Damon Wayans

Sr.'s Roger Murtaugh.

Whether Wayans himself would continue then became a question mark, since he publicly said last fall that he was ready to walk, due to what he voiced as his dissatisfaction with long working hours that cut into his family time substantially. Eventually, an agreement was struck for him to stay, at least at that time; the question of whether that would have held for Season 4 is moot now.

Q: I missed "Dancing With the Stars" this spring. Will it be back in the fall? — Donna Cramer, Grafton, Ohio

A: It will. You can expect to see hosts Tom Bergeron and Erin Andrews back in the ballroom with many of the returning dance pros and a new group of celebrity contestants, since ABC has renewed the competition for its 28th season. Besides making the show more of an event again with it staged only once per television year (despite the "Juniors" spinoff that was attempted last fall), the reduced schedule also addresses the abundance of reality programming that the network now has in the early months of the calendar year. Mondays remain reserved for "The Bachelor," which also has been renewed — and in the interim between that and the spring start of "The Bachelorette," additional episodes of the then-in-season "American Idol" have been used to help fill the Monday gap.

Las Delicias de Morelos, Mexican Restaurant welcomes new and returning diners to the most colorful and festive atmosphere one could imagine! Posters, banners, art and traditional folk decor shout "VIVA MEXICO"! Booths and tables dressed in traditional colors and patterns of woven table clothes offer the authentic look of 'South of the Border Down Mexico Way'.

Flags and sombreros, tamales and mission bells are strung across the ceiling as you enter this family restaurant. You instantly feel a festive mood come over you. Whether dining alone or with a companion you can find a comfortable spot. If you wish to entertain guests, this establishment is adult and child friendly. It is already decorated for you and seats up to forty people.

Included in the restaurant menu are many delightful fruit beverages, Mexican and American as well as the standard sodas. Children have their own section of food selections to choose from and there are also several fish and seafood dishes offered and salad. Specialty soups will satisfy those seeking something different and wholesome to warm them on a chilly day.

Hector, the owner of this restaurant and his wife demonstrate their love for others through sharing their excellent food. Day after day they prepare each dish they make with tender love and care. They open their doors at 7 a.m. for breakfast and continue through lunch and dinner and close at 9 p.m.

Hector and his business family are very appreciative for their work. The cooks and serving staff do their utmost to offer their customers the very best. Whether the customer dines in their restaurant or prefers to take it home, Hector wants their choice of foods at Las Delicias de Morelos Mexican Restaurant to transmit 100% Mexican flavor to their taste buds.

"We try our best to reach the door of your hearts as well as your homes. They now offer free delivery! Open 6 days a week Monday thru Sunday and closed on Tuesdays. "We await your visit to enjoy a taste of our food, here at our restaurant 'Las Delicias de Morelos'."

This reporter has sampled the cuisine: quesadillas de pollo, in both the soft and hard shell and tostada steak and they were both attractive in presentation and texture with delicious authentic Mexican flavor. To complement the meal, Mango Boing was suggested and it surely was 100% fruity and Mexican in a tall slender, easily to handle bottle. Now at Las Delicias de Morelos is a delicious buffet with a different special daily.

Las Delicias de Morelos Mexican Restaurant is conveniently located at 424 Avenue C (near 18th Street) Bayonne, NJ. Tel. 201-354-6479.

HOLLYWOOD

By Tony Rizzo

HOLLYWOOD — Will Smith is reportedly being paid a whopping $35 million by Netflix for "Bright 2" (the original "Bright," with Joel Edgerton, cost $90 million to make). That's more than the busiest guy in movies, Dwayne Johnson, who makes $20 million per film. Will has a cameo in "Student of the Year 2" (now in theaters), but goes big and wide as the Genie in the live-action "Aladdin" (out May 24), and the animated spy comedy "Spies in Disguise," with Tom Holland (due Sept. 13). Next he'll star in three-time Oscar-winning director Ang Lee's sci-fi film "Gemini Man," in which Smith plays the dual role of a man and his own clone (coming Oct. 11), followed by the action comedy "Bad Boys for Life," with Martin Lawrence and Vanessa Hudgens (Jan. 17). Ryan Reynolds, who starred in and co-produced "Deadpool" (which grossed $783 million) and its sequel ($785 million gross), has upped his price and star status. He is reportedly getting $27 million from Netflix to star in "6 Underground," about a billionaire-financed vigilante squad. Meanwhile, Reynolds' "The Hitman's Bodyguard," which earned $176 million, has spawned a sequel, "The Hitman's Wife's Bodyguard," with Samuel L. Jackson and Salma Hayek (due in 2020). His latest film, the just-released "Pokémon Detective Pikachu," is a big hit.

Will Smith

When "Doctor Dolittle" opened in 1967 with Oscar-winner Rex Harrison (who was a big star), it was a flop that cost $17 million and earned only $9 million. Twentieth Century Fox was more successful in 2001 with Eddie Murphy (which cost $70 million and earned $176 million). Fox sold it to Universal Pictures for "The Voyage of Doctor Dolittle" (out Jan. 17) and paid Robert Downey Jr. $20 million to play the man who can talk to animals.

Tom Cruise is getting $14 million for "Top Gun: Maverick"; Jason Statham $13 million for "The Fast and The Furious" spin-off "Hobbs & Shaw" (while Idris Elba is making only $8 million for the same film); and Emily Blunt reportedly is going to make $13 million for the sequel to "A Quiet Place." Leonardo DiCaprio and Brad Pitt are earning only $10 million each for Quentin Tarantino's "Once Upon a Time in Hollywood," the same as Gal Gadot, who received a huge pay hike for "Wonder Woman 1984."

Hollywood is well-represented in nominations for this year's Tony Awards (June 9 at Radio City Music Hall), with the musicals "Beetlejuice" (eight nominations) and "Tootsie" (11 nominations). Among acting nominations are Bryan Cranston ("Network"), Jeff Daniels ("To Kill a Mockingbird"), "Star Wars" Adam Driver ("Burn This"), Annette Bening ("All My Sons") and Laurie Metcalf ("Hillary and Clinton"). As they say, "Everything old is new again" ... again!

Kristin Kreuk faces a new 'Burden of Truth' in Season 2

By Jay Bobbin

Kristin Kreuk knows the burden of solid storytelling can get greater as a series continues.

The "Smallville" and "Beauty and the Beast" veteran is an executive producer as well as the star of the law drama "Burden of Truth," starting its second-season U.S. run Sunday, June 2, on The CW after already having aired in its (and her) native Canada. The show was conceived around a toxic-waste-caused illness affecting young women in the hometown of Kreuk's character, attorney Joanna Hanley, but a new season means a new case.

"When we went in to pitch the show," Kreuk says, "Brad Simpson — who created it — already had a sense of what the second season would be about and look like. Joanna moves to Winnipeg, and her client is a young hacker who's an activist for good. I think that part was a bit more challenging for the writing team, to come up with a case that could tie back in throughout the season."

Still, Kreuk feels the new story reflects a major "Burden of Truth" theme, which she terms "intergenerational trauma. All of the characters are dealing with the mistakes their parents made, or with the way they were raised, or with the way society has treated them. We get to push the characters into challenges regarding who they are, so that they can become less tied to that trauma. And that gives us a backbone for the show."

While Joanna has relocated, her friend and recent colleague Billy (played by "Rookie Blue" alum Peter Mooney) remains in the town of Millwood, dealing with fallout from the first-season case — but they won't stay apart for long. With that said, the latest round of "Burden of Truth" largely explores Joanna as her own person.

"She wants to change, but it's really hard to change," reasons Kreuk. "I think for all of us, it's really rare that we make giant leaps in our progress as individuals. The way she has functioned is through work, with the billable hour the most important thing to her ... and with no social life. For the first time, she is challenged to be a human being in her work, which is really hard for her. It forces her to push herself, which results in some humor that is nice to see."

Canada's CBC network has ordered a Season 3 of "Burden of Truth." While also executive-producing a documentary about Indian "bandit queen" Phoolan Devi, Kreuk is gratified by fans' acceptance of Joanna: "She's unwilling to risk the pain of loss, so she doesn't let herself love or be loved, and I get a lot of messages from people saying that they really feel that."

IN FOCUS

"Too Old to Die Young"
(Amazon — series premiere, June 14)

Miles Teller ("Fantastic Four") stars as Martin, a cop grieving over the loss of his murdered partner. He and his partner's killer get pulled into the criminal underbelly of Los Angeles that consists of Yakuza soldiers, cartel assassins, the Russian mob and gangs of teenage murderers. The solid cast of the 10-episode drama also includes William Baldwin, Jena Malone and John Hawkes.

IN FOCUS

"The Rook"
(Starz — series premiere, June 30)

Myfanwy Thomas (Emma Greenwell) is a woman with a mountain of problems. Not only does she find herself beside London's Millennium Bridge with no memory of how she got there, she's also surrounded by dead bodies. Eventually she discovers that she's a high-ranking official in a secret service for people with paranormal abilities and seeks to find out why she's a target and more importantly, who erased her memory. James D'Arcy also stars.

IN FOCUS

"Pennyworth"
(Epix — series premiere, July 28)

Before he was the famed butler of Bruce Wayne (aka Batman), Alfred Pennyworth (Jack Bannon) was a British SAS soldier. This 10-episode drama follows his younger years, post-service in 1960s London, as he forms a security company and works with billionaire Thomas Wayne (Ben Aldridge, "Fleabag"), later known as Bruce's father. Other stars include recording artist Paloma Faith, Ryan Fletcher ("Outlander") and Emma Corrin ("The Crown").
